

Thanks are due to the Rotary Club of Redmond, which donated $10,000 for an art bench at Fire Fighter's plaza.

Roger Martindill of the Rotary Club of Redmond, presenting a donation check to Mayor Rosemarie Ives for the Fire Fighter's Bench.

This donation enabled the City to commission artist Michele Van Slyke to create an art bench which capped off the plaza as a public gathering place and respite along the NE 85th Street Corridor. The Fire Fighter's Bench was dedicated on October 4th.

Attendance at both events: 140+

Literary Arts

Write Out Loud! continued to be cosponsored in the spring with six spoken word events for all ages. Cosponsor Redmond Association of SPokenword, literary arts festival organizers, continues to grow spoken word programs for all ages in Redmond.

Attendance: 219

Art Quest continues to be a solid section in FOCUS, and the Community Arts Calendar coordination provided information for Redmond residents to explore the arts in Redmond and the eastside. Close to 3,000 issues were mailed to art supporters in addition to the 26,000 that are mailed by FOCUS to Redmond residents quarterly.

Arts Education

The K-2 and 3-6 art lesson books were published and became available for purchase. These valuable resources have been selling briskly to arts organizations, schools and school districts around the state from the promotion through participation in the statewide Arts Time teacher's conference.
